

Do you serve someone who is living with dementia?

Then you cannot afford to miss

Mastering the Art of Dementia Care

Thursday, May 11, 2017 from 9:00 am to 4:00 pm

Brookdale Parkplace, 111 Emerson St, Denver, CO 80218

Check-in, late registration & morning coffee 8:30AM

CEUs available - Lunch & snacks provided - Park in employee lot or on the street

Register by 4/27/17 to secure your spot. Late registration fee: $25

Presented By:

and

Overview

Join Eric Collett, a nationally recognized expert in dementia care, for a comprehensive one-day seminar designed to help attendees develop the fundamental skills that are crucial to successfully supporting persons living with dementia. Using personal, real-life examples, Eric will share the tools, techniques, strategies and approaches he has developed over nearly 17 years working directly with those living with Alzheimer's disease and other forms of dementia. Eric is passionate about learning and the power ideas have to open our eyes to new possibilities. Don't miss the chance to associate with other caring people who are excited to learn together!

About the Presenter

Eric Collett, owner and principal of A Mind For All Seasons, LLC, is a licensed assisted living administrator, adjunct faculty member in the Dept. of Community & Environmental Health at Boise State University, instructor at the College of Western Idaho, and a sought-after public speaker, business coach and trainer. Eric graduated summa cum laude from the University of Utah with a degree in interpersonal communication. He has spent his career studying the complex interaction patterns of people living with dementia and bringing joy to their lives.

$199 fee covers the full day plus materials. Register TODAY at www.amindforallseasons.com/events Call 208-571-2475 for questions or to learn about special group rates.

Don't Settle For Knowledge When You Can Have WISDOM!

Too many people attend seminars, learn exciting things, but never change. As an administrator, Eric Collett has spent years learning how to help staff members apply knowledge. He recently helped one memory care community go from 72% to 100% occupancy with a waiting list and stay full for 6 more years.

In this exciting seminar, Eric will help participants learn innovative, practical ways to apply the latest knowledge about Alzheimer's and related dementias so participants can:

- Create environmental and interpersonal conditions that minimize negative behavioral expressions.
- Make bathing, dressing, toileting, medication assistance, eating and other ADLs a more positive experience.
- Learn an innovative way to hire the right people for a memory care community.
- Create memory care units that sell themselves.
- Learn creative ways to help those with dementia have a sense of purpose.

Who Should Attend?

- Assisted Living administrators, owners, nurses and staff
- Skilled Nursing administrators, owners, nurses and staff
- Home health, hospice and personal care agency staff
- Family members and other loved ones of persons living with dementia